Explain your selected case study, describe the central problem, and recommend a practical solution.

On the imaginary moon Velora, floating gardens capture mineral mist at dawn. Researchers rotate salt-tolerant seedlings between shaded platforms and measure root growth after each mist cycle.